Disclaimer and data protection

By registering for the archery tournament, each participant accepts the following disclaimer:

"Participation in the archery tournament is at your own risk. Participants are aware of the typical risks associated with archery and natural outdoor terrain. These include, in particular, uneven terrain, roots, stones, trip hazards, slippery or unstable ground conditions, and sudden changes in weather (rain, storms, wet conditions, mud, limited visibility). Participants assume these risks at their own responsibility.

The organizer is only liable for damages resulting from intent or gross negligence. In cases of slight negligence, the organizer is only liable for breaches of essential contractual obligations (cardinal obligations). Any further liability—in particular for damages resulting from the participant's own behavior, careless movement on the terrain, or weather-related changes in ground conditions—is excluded.

Participants are obliged to comply with the safety rules, course markings, and instructions of the organizer and to shoot only at safe angles.

The organizer accepts no liability for equipment, arrows, or personal belongings of participants.
